

Musing over the message on:
“WHY GIVE IT TO GOD”

 When dealing with an offender, how have you found yourself taking over God’s parking place?

 Why is the temptation to “crowd God out” so strong?

 Specifically, in what ways can you identify that God is a better judge than you in a current relationship issue?

 How do you see that God can demonstrate His care for you within an offensive relationship?

 In what ways does God go about healing His children?

 Recall a time in your life when you felt the relief of God’s healing you (not the relationship) during a time of relationship turmoil?
